1. On 17 May 1951, a German employed at the Delius Kaserne, Potsdam (N 53/3 63) said that the engineer unit there, which numbered about 200 men, had moved to the summer camp in the Koenigswald. A senior lieutenant and 60 engineer troops were seen crossing the Havel River from Koenigswald by means of two pontoons on 10 May. They subsequently marched to the Delius Kaserne.

2. Two German women employed in the Hohenlohe Kaserne said on 17 May that only about 200 troops were quartered in the installation, and that 600 to 700 troops from the installation had left for field training, allegedly in the Trebbin area. The 200 troops at the installation had returned from a field exercise at Doeberitz during the night of 16 May. An 85-mm AA gun was seen in the barracks yard. (2)

3. During a prolonged period of observation, source established that motor vehicles [redacted] were stationed in the Generals' Quarter, near Berlin. They could enter the billeting area without stopping at the gate, but the drivers of all other motor vehicles had to produce their papers before entering. (3)

7. On 21 May, it was determined that the former Heeresunteroffiziersschule in Potsdam-Eiche was largely destroyed. Two undamaged buildings of the installation housed German civilians. Three fenced-in low brick barracks were guarded by 10 soldiers with red-bordered black epaulets with artillery insignia and seemed to contain ammunition. (5)

8. Two generals and officers of all branches of service, except naval officers, were seen in traffic to the restricted area of Dabolsberg on 25 May. The restricted area was guarded by sentries who wore black-bordered crimson epaulets. Motor vehicles seen in traffic [redacted]

[redacted] Comments.

- (1) Since another source also reported that a truck convoy from Koenigswald stopped in front of the Delius Kaserne on 11 May 1951, it is believed that the quarters at Koenigswald will be occupied by elements of the unidentified engineer regiment of the GOFG during the summer months, as they were in 1950.
- (2) The regiments of the 2d Gds AAA Div in the Hohenlohe Kaserne may have been away for firing practice at Wustrow. The troops and materiel loaded on 19 May were probably shipped there too. Nothing is known on a movement of the units to Trebbin.
- (3) [redacted]
- (4) The train carried component units of the unidentified engineer regiment of the GOFG which is returning to Potsdam from the training area at Aken on the Elbe River. Elements of the regiment were previously observed by 25X1 several other sources when they were loaded at Dessau and on their way back to the home station. The source reporting from Dessau saw bridge sections of lattice-work steel girders which were of the same type as those
- (5) [redacted]
- (6) The information by two sources confirms the 30th Gds Gun Arty Brig as still being located in the Delius Kaserne in mid-May 1951.
